NUMB. 2470

MONDAY, MAY 23. 1743.

Since our last arrived a Mail from France, and another from Flanders.

Stockholm, May 6.

OUR Confusions here are as great as ever, and our Hopes of Peace more uncertain. In the mean time, we have had some small Successes at Sea to keep up our Spirits. Major Delwich has burnt at Kinnico, on the Coast of Pomerania, a vast Quantity of Timber, which the Russians were providing there, in order to build Gallies; we have likewise taken some considerable Prizes, and Vice-Admiral Blakenberg is still on the Coast of Livonia with his Squadron. Next Week the important Point of the Succession will be determined, as also, whether Peace shall be accepted on the Terms offer'd by Russia. The Secret Committee have given Notice, that in a few Days final Sentence will be pronounced on Count Lowenhaupt and General Bismarck, so that all our Doubts will end together.

Copenhagen, May 21. Our Fleet is in exceeding good Order, and waits only the last Orders to put to Sea. A Danish Foreign Minister has lately presented a Memorial, in order to dissuade his Majesty from pursuing the new War. In this he observes, that French Schemes prove always fatal to the Northern Powers. That the Bishop of Lubeck's Accession to the Throne of Sweden may be made very advantageous to Denmark, and must be so to all Europe beside. That Russia had been forced into the present War, and had testified such Readiness to put an end to it on reasonable Terms, that if any new Turn should happen, and give that Empire extraordinary Advantages, no Power in Europe could interpose, but the Conquest must be intirely left to the Czarina's Mercy. We don't know what Effect this Memorial will produce.

Munich, May 20. We are very apprehensive that his Imperial Majesty will be obliged to remove from hence, and we are even pretty sure that some of the Officers of his Household are set out from hence already. The Austrians push their Advantages with Vigour, and the French are confounded. The Fire at Dingelsingen broke out in one of their Sattler's Quarters, which caus'd the Loss of that important Post. An Express is just arriv'd from Count-am-hoff, with Advice, that Prince Lobkowitz has destroyed 30,000 Barbarians in that Neighbourhood, who carry all before them. They consist of 15,000 Hussars, 1000 Pandours, 1000 Croats, and 500 Hanquies; and, it is said, he expects of the latter, 2500 more. An Officer is this Moment arriv'd from Mr. Broglie, and it is whisper'd, that Yesterday in the Afternoon the Austrians had attacked the Prince of Conti's Troops, consisting of 6000 Horse and Dragoons, and had totally routed them. Our Fears make us but too credulous; however, some Circumstances relating to this Affair appear at present very improbable. Our Magazines are so destroy'd we cannot long keep the Field. The Enemy pour in from all sides, so that we are in Danger of being surrounded, unless M. Broglie will join the Imperialists heartily, and deliver us by one decisive Battle.

Frankfort, May 23. In the extraordinary Assembly of the Diet on the 17th, Debates ran higher than ever. We plainly perceive that the Imperial Party is very weak. A Vote was carried, that none of the States of the Empire should be, in the present War, obliged to a Neutrality, but be left at Liberty to act as they saw proper. Some of the Archbishops of the Emperor's Guard are returned hither, as also some of the Officers of the Household. An Express is arriv'd, who is said to have brought the News of the Surrender of Braunau on the 19th; but as the Post is letting out, we cannot pretend to enter into Particulars. The Auxiliaries consist at present of 52 Squadrons and 42 Battalions; but as the Dutch are expected, they will then make 147 Squadrons, and 94 Battalions.

Wetzlar, May 23. The Hanoverians are encamped by themselves upon the Mein, at the Distance of a League and a Half above Frankfort, near a Village called Dornheim; there are in their Camp all the Grenadiers of their Body; the six Battalions of Foot which crossed the Rhine first, and six Squadrons of Horse, besides which, there are already come to that Camp two Battalions more, which arriv'd within these three Days, and the rest of their Foot are just at Hand, and will all be in the Camp, as well as their Artillery, before the 28th. The British Troops are encamped in two several Bodies, the one about half a League above this Town towards Frankfort, consisting of seven Battalions, and Lieutenant-General Campbell's Regiment of Dragoons, which is already in the Neighbourhood, is to encamp there To-morrow or next Day. The other Camp of the British Troops is just below this Town, and is composed of the Regiments of Dragoons of Lord Stair and Bland, the three Battalions of Guards, and two other marching Regiments. The rest of the Infantry (except two Battalions, which are to remain to guard the Bridge at Neuwied, till our Cavalry and that of Hanover have passed the Rhine) and all the Dragoons will join the Army here in a few Days, as well as our Artillery. The Horse are likewise coming up very fast, and the last Division of the British Cavalry is to pass the Rhine upon the 28th. The Hanoverian Cavalry are to follow them as close as possibly they can, and the Hessians, both Horse and Foot, are actually in Motion to follow them; so that Lord Stair will have all his Force together very soon. The Austrians have begun to encamp likewise upon the Banks of the Mein, but a good deal farther down towards Mentz.

Liege, May 24. Yesterday the first Division of the Hessian Troops, consisting of the Etat Major, the Regiment of Grenadiers, and the Regiment of Foot-Guards, arriv'd upon the Frontier of this Principality at St. Tron, and march'd this Day to Tongres, where they will halt To-morrow, and pass the Maeze the 26th at Macfricht. We are inform'd, that the General Prince George of Hesse marches with this Division, which is commanded by Major-General De Brandt.

Hague, May 28. Yesterday the States dispatched away the Orders to the Regiments appointed for the Assistance of the Queen of Hungary, to be in a Readiness to march upon the first Warning; and as soon as the Queen's Intentions shall be known, these Troops are to march towards their Rendezvous. The States have resolv'd to write her Hungarian and Bohemian Majesty a Letter of Felicitation. We have an Account from Brussels, that Prince Charles of Lorraine had beat a great Body of French Cavalry, under the Command of the Prince of Conti, but this is judg'd to want Confirmation; tho' it must be own'd, the News of the late Victory at Braunsau came thro' the same Canal. It is certain, that the Reports of a Peace between Sardinia and Spain are without Foundation, and that his Sardinian Majesty intends to enter Savoy, as soon as the Season will permit. M. Vander Meer died lately at Madrid of an Apoplexy; he succeeded M. de Ripperda.

Extract from the Paris Almanach.

Paris, May 29. Last Thursday the King held a grand Council of State, and To-morrow he intends to return from Choisy to Versailles.

His Majesty has given a Regiment of Foot to the Son of M. Stainville, Resident from the Grand Duke of Tuscany.

M. Noailles has actually passed the Neckar over two Bridges, and the Allies have in the same manner passed the Main.

Our Army is at present superior to theirs, but we cannot say it will be so when joined by the 20,000 Dutch.

There is a Report that the Spaniards have beat the English in a Sea Fight near Jamaica, and have sunk Seven of their Ships; but it is attended with such Circumstances, as hinders it from meeting with any Credit.

Genoa, May 15. The English are, it is said, weary of Baron Theodore, and it is also reported that he has been stabb'd at Florence coming out of a Playhouse, but this merits Confirmation; tho' if he does not take great Care, this will certainly be his Fate.

The Duke of Modena arriv'd the 30th ult. at Rimini, in order to take upon him the Command of the Spanish Army; and in his Road the Austrian Hussars wish'd him but by little more than a Quarter of an Hour.

The Duchy of Milan is so infested with Robbers, that the King of Sardinia is oblig'd to send Troops to reduce them. The Marquis Darnis, one of the most famous Sharpers in Europe, died in that City lately, in a miserable Condition.

The Swedes attempted to make a Descent on the Coast of Finland, but were oblig'd to abandon their Design by the prudent Dispositions of General Keith.

Private Letters from Hanover say, that a Congress will shortly open there, composed of the Ministers of the High Allies, in order to concert proper Methods for restoring Peace.

From Brussels they write, that the Prince de la Tour and Taxis had received an Express from the Dyet of the Empire; who at Donawert, on the 20th N. S. spoke with a French Officer, who said the Prince of Conti had been defeated the Day before, and that he was one of the few who escap'd.

By the Taking of Dingelsingen, the Junction of the Imperial and French Armies will be rendered impracticable; and, in all Probability, Prince Charles will improve that Opportunity, and attack the French Posts immediately, and before their Army can assemble.

His Polish Majesty has given Permission to the Count de Saxe's Major, to buy Horses for remounting his Dragoons; but as to the raising of a Regiment of Ulan, all that has been so positively said in the French Gazette, is absolutely void of Foundation.

On the 2d Instant one Richard Cadman, who was Servant or Agent to Mr. Charles Yonge and Company, Contractors for the Return of the Excise Duties for Wales Middle Collection, having receiv'd from the Collector of Excise 855 l. 14 s. 6 d. at Bishop's Castle in Wales, was murdered about two Miles and a Half from that Place, and robb'd of the Money.

THE Elements of ALGEBRA,
New and Easy Method; with their Use and Application, in the Solution of a great Variety of Arithmetical and Geometrical Questions, by General and Universal Rules.
To which is prefix'd, An Introduction containing a succinct History of this Science.

By Mr. NATHANIEL HAMMOND, of the Bank.

Extract from the Account of this Book in the Works of the Learned.

'The World has long complained of the Want of a proper Introduction to Algebra. Some are so very concise, as they were contrived not to teach but introduce a Teacher.
Others again are larger, but wrote with so little Consideration to the Understandings of such as are altogether unacquainted with the Science, that they are of very little Use to those who are most inclined to make use of them. When it comes to pass, that few find it practicable to make any Progress in Algebra without a Master, tho' certainly the Science in itself is far from surpassing a clear Head, and a reasonable Understanding.

'The Design of this Treatise, which is of a reasonable and which contains nothing which is not solid, and to Purpose, is to assist such as are engaged in teaching Algebra with a regular Method, and a large Stock of Examples, so that their Scholars may find Employment in their Abstrac-tion, and to enable such as live in Country-Places, and not frequently want all other Tutors, except Books, to attain such a Skill in this Science, as may enable them to find Portion of their Time agreeably in the Cultivation of the better Parts, and in rendering a natural Method of enquiring after Truth habitual.

'The Treatise begins with a copious Explication of Fundamental Principles of the Art, and of the Signs and Method of Notation used therein. The Author then proceeds to the several Rules, explaining them carefully and copiously in all their various Cases; so that with a moderate Attention it is simply impossible for a Person, who desires to be Master of Algebra, to miss of his End.

'We never find this Writer advancing any thing out of proper Place, or burthening the Mind of his Scholar with Rules, before they become necessary: He professes to imitate the judicious Euclid in this Respect; and he has done it with equal Art and Felicity. By this means he has delivered the young Student in Algebra from that which is usually the most fatiguing Part of the Science, viz. the Doctrine of Surds, in the Manner in which it is usually taught. By the same Means he leads his Reader directly to Equations; and, by shewing him the Profit he will reap from this Science, encourages him to overcome all his difficulties. But having thus laid a strong and rational Foundation, he moves more slowly through the rest of his Work, that whoever follows him, may be obliged to become Master of every Branch of the Art, so as to be a complete Algebraist before he quits his Book, and not a Smatterer.

'Quadratic Equations, and the Art of managing Contingent Series, the admirable Invention of the incomparable Newton, are here so clearly explained, and their several Uses so plainly set down, and so thoroughly explicated, that they may be truly said, there are no where else such Instructions to be met with. At the Close of the Book, we find a large Number of Observations, necessary for enlightening such as are willing to proceed still farther in analytic Discourse, so that considering the Compass of this Work, and that it is very moderate, it is as complete as possibly can be expected: And he who is thoroughly versed in it, will find no Difficulties, when he proceeds to sublimer Studies. The Language is plain and natural, the Book is more compact than any other in Examples, and the Illustrations of Meaning are so full and clear, that it is impossible to mistake
the Meaning.
